Newsletter
September 06
Issue 3

Communio Internationalis Benedictinarum

Contact: Sr. Monica Lewis OSB, Abtei St. Scholastika, D - 49413 Dinklage
Telefon: +49 4443 513 0 Fax: +49 4443 513-118 e-mail: abtei@abteiburgdinklage.de

Contents:
Editorial 1
New Leadership team 1
Symposium 2006 2 - 10
Overview 2 - 3
Contributions by participants:
My impressions 4
by M. Eulalie Mazuya
A first experience: 5
by Sr. Scholastika Deck
An appreciation
by Sr. Clare Condon 5
A vision of a new future
by Sr. M.Roberta Crocetti 6
The Symposium Liturgy
by M. Marie-Thérèse Hautier 8
Renewing my vows in Norcia
by Sr. Austin Chang 9
An opportunity to encounter our heritage
by Sr. Phoebe Schwarzer 9
Reflection 10
by Sr. Michaela Hedican

Order Form Catalogus 2006 11

Catalogus 2006
is now available from
Centro Studi S. Ansclomo,
Libreria Editrice,
Piazza Cavalieri di Malta 5
00153 Roma
Italia
Tel: ++39.06.5791.320 Fax: ++39.06.5791.366
ORDER FORM page 11

Editorial
This year’s Newsletter brings information about the 5th International Symposium of the CIB as well as news of the changes in the Administrative Council. Once more ca. 100 Benedictine Women from all over the world met in San’Anselmo, Rome, to share thoughts on their common Benedictine values. It was again a fruitful and enriching encounter between the different cultures and traditions. This Symposium was prepared by the Moderator and Administrative Council whose term ran from 2002 - 2006: Abbess Máire Hickey from Dinklage, Germany, Sr. Judith Ann Heble, Sacred Heart Monastery Lisle, USA, Sr. Sonia Wagner, Good Samaritan Benedictines, Australia, M. Theodora Ntuli, Prioress General of the Twasana Benedictines in South Africa, Abbess Jolanta Rzoska, Zarnowiec, Poland and M.Dolores Hong, Tutzing Missionary Benedictines, Seoul, Korea. With the closing of the Symposium the term of the Administrative Council came to an end. Abbess Máire made it clear that she would not be available for a further term. Her leadership of the CIB over the past nine years has been very much appreciated and in many different ways gratitude and respect was expressed for her work of establishing the CIB during her term of office. An appreciation of her contribution is to be found in this Newsletter as well as information about the new Council and a variety of articles covering these events.

New Leadership Team for the CIB

At the meeting of the Conference September 15, 2006, a new administration was elected. The new Moderator for the next four year term is Prioress Judith Ann Heble of Sacred Heart Monastery, Lisle, IL USA, President of the Conference of Benedictine Prioresses (CBP) and Assistant Moderator for the past four years.

Assistant Moderator is Abbess Vera Lucia Parreiras Horta of Salvador, Brazil and the other two elected members of the Council are Prioress General Theodora Ntuli of the Twasana Benedictines in South Africa and Sr. Teresa Paula Dias Perdigao, of the monastery Roriz in Portugal and President of the Benedictine international congregation Regina Apostolorum.

The new Moderator and Administrative Council met the same day and nominated two more members, as is possible according to the statutes of the CIB. The two nominated members of the Council are: Prioress Zoë Davis of Turvey Abbey, Great Britain, and Sr. Clare Condon, Prioress of the Good Samaritan Benedictines, Australia.

Do you have questions about the structure and workings of the CIB?
Ask your delegate for a copy of the CIB Handbook, now available in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish.
In September, I along with 17 other younger members of Benedictine monasteries from around the world had the special privilege of attending the CIB Symposium in Rome. In the Dialogues of St. Gregory, St. Benedict is described as seeing before he died the whole world in a ray of light. As we gathered together at San Anselmo, I felt that we were a part of that vision. During our days together we had the opportunity to hear talks from respected scholars and leaders related to wisdom leadership and these were very valuable and informative. Perhaps even more valuable was experiencing the lived experience of leadership from all the Abbesses and Prioresses at the Symposium. To hear their love for their communities and for monastic life, to hear their commitment to the future, and to hear their appreciation of we newer members was a profound experience. It was also important to have the opportunity to share our experiences and to form bonds with each other.

Sr. Phoebe Schwartze, Sacred Heart Monastery, Richardton, ND, USA

M. Máire is a person intensely conscious of the leading of the Holy Spirit. It has been a great privilege to me to work at her side and to see at close hand the way she stepped back and allowed the Spirit of God to work. Her initiatives were always to give the Spirit more room, to listen more closely to His promptings and to carry out to the end, at whatever cost, whatever His leadings seemed to be. And so I also had the privilege to share her joy at seeing something wonderful unfold before our eyes. It was like seeing a child being born, new life coming into being, a gift of God.

Thank you M. Máire for leading the way.

Sr. M.
Rev. Fr. S.M. Selvaratnam, OMI, born in Sri Lanka in 1941, has training in Audio-Visual Education, Psychology and Counseling. He is a member of the American Association of Pastoral Counselors and is a certified clinical supervisor with the NACC. He is now director of a counselling centre in Sri Lanka as well as being clinical supervisor at the International Institute of St. Anselm’s, Kent, United Kingdom.

Sr.Aquinata Böckmann OSB
Sr.Aquinata Böckmann, born in 1937, profession in the Community of Missionary Benedictine Sisters in Tutzing, 1962, Doctorate in Spirituality at the University of Münster, 1972, professor at the Monastic Institute, S.Anselmo and at the University Regina Mundi in Rome since 1974.
She conducts seminars on the Rule of St.Benedict and gives retreats to Benedictine men and women in various parts of the world.

Priorress Cecilia Dwyer born 1945, entered Saint Benedict Monastery, Bristow, USA 1963, served as teacher, musician, liturgist and formation/vocation director and for several terms as prioress since 1987. She says of herself: “the Liturgy of the Hours is the food of my soul.”
On the following pages there are some reflections on the experience of the Symposium by participants from Africa, Asia, Oceanea, USA and Europe, superiors and newer members. In order to reflect the variety, these articles are being printed in the original language.

NOS IMPRESSIONS SUR LA SYMPOSIUM CIB 2006, M. Eulalie Mazuya

Nos impressions sur l’organisation, l’initiative et la participation à cette rencontre sur la CIB sont très positives d’autant plus que c’est notre première fois d’y prendre part.

La rencontre était si fraternoelle et a levé l’équivoque sur le sens et l’objectif de la CIB.

Il n’y a pas eu perte de temps, l’horaire était bien adapté et respecté. Certes, tout travail humain n’est pas exhaustif, l’importance était la participation active de chacune. L’organisation était bonne, une rencontre si enrichissante qui est le fruit d’une préparation lointaine. Ce qui a fait preuve du choix des ces deux intervenants et de partage de nos deux mères sur leurs expériences de vie d’un bon bon.

Tous étaient à la hauteur et bien clair dans leurs exposés. Leurs rapports nous donnent un grand piste et un modèle pouvant nous aider à assumer avec amour notre ministère en amour selon la règle de Saint Benoît, il construit la communauté en marchant ensemble vers un même but.

La simplicité, l’ouverture et la spontanéité ont enrichies nos échanges qui nous ont amené à une connaissance et à une bonne solidarité. Par là, nous encourageons et félicitons cette initiative d’inviter les jeunes professeuses perpétuelles qui nous ont partagé leurs expériences réelles dans la confiance.

Pour l’avenir, il est nécessaire de faire connaître la CIB et diffuser les informations à toutes les bénédictines. Nous profitons de cette rencontre de la CIB qui est bénéfique pour nous communautés du Congo et celles de notre région en général.

Mère Eulalie MAZUYA,
Prieure du Monastère Saint Sauveur,
Lubumbashi, /RD CONGO, Region 17

MY IMPRESSIONS OF THE CIB SYMPOSIUM 2006, by M.Eulalie Mazuya

I have very favourable impressions of the CIB Symposium, of the organisation involved, the ideas behind it all and the way that everyone was included and actively took part. This impressed me the more, since it was my first time to take part.

The sisterly atmosphere took away all my reservations about the point of such a meeting.

The schedule was balanced and respected by all and the time well used. For sure, nothing that is human is perfect, but the important thing was that everyone actively participated. The organisation was good and it was clear that it had been prepared well in advance. This was evident in the choice of the two speakers and the invitation to the two monastic leaders to share their experiences. All four were excellent and very clear in what they had to say. Their papers offered a wide spectrum as well as modelling for us how to take up our ministry in love in the way God expects from us: “A religious leader is a good guide who has influential relationships in view of change and transformation; and - as mapped out in the Rule of St. Benedict - is someone who builds up the community by encouraging all to journey together in the same direction.”

The simplicity, openness and spontaneity enriched our sharing and helped us get to know each other and bond easily. I would like especially to congratulate the organisers for inviting the younger sisters who had recently made perpetual vows, and who trustfully and openly shared with us their authentic experiences.

For the future it will be important to make the CIB known and to pass on information to all Benedictine women’s communities. I take this opportunity to say thank you for the invitation to take part. I am sure that the CIB is very valuable for our communities in the Congo and in the whole of our region.
Das erste Mal dabei: Wie würde es sein? Ich kam mit diffusen Erwartungen und es war alles noch interessanter, noch bunter, noch eindrücklicher, als ich es mir je hätte vorstellen können. Und das alles in Rom! Äbtissinnen und Priorinnen mit unterschiedliche Erfahrungs-Hintergrund, aus Prioraten mit mehreren hundert Schwestern und aus kleinen klausurierten Gemeinschaften, aus Abteien mit jahrhundertelanger Geschichte oder ganz jungen Kommunitäten, aus blühenden Klöstern mit vielen Berufen und aus Klöstern, die kaum Überlebenschancen sehen, aus armen und aus reichen Ländern. Es waren alte erfahrene Äbtissinnen (bzw. Priorinnen) dabei und junge mit wenigen Amtsjahren; da waren die amerikanischen Mütter und die englischen, die französischen und die afrikanischen, die italienischen und die asiatischen u.a.; dazwischen noch die jungen Schwestern aus den Regionen. All diese Menschen waren zusammen, lebten und beten gemeinsam in verschiedenen Sprachen, tauschten sich aus über das Gehörte und teilten miteinander ihre Erfahrungen.

A vision of a new future
by
Sr. Maria Roberta Crocetti

Together with young sisters from all over the world, I felt myself called to be a bridge of hope between the past and the future.

I came to Rome to participate in the Symposium as the young sister from Region 1 (Italy and Malta)... I found myself in a situation which was completely new for me. At first I felt overwhelmed by the “barrier” of language, but I quickly discovered that it was possible to communicate and to sense a unity on a deep level beyond language, beyond the different traditions and cultures, and beyond the historical development of each region and community. I recognised the work of the Holy Spirit in the way many sisters had collaborated and worked with a lot of creativity, from the liturgy, to ways of sharing and to time of joy and playfulness, all this in the service of the Communio. During these days I often thought of the picture from the dialogues of St. Gregory in which St. Benedict sees the whole world in one ray of light. Each of us represented our own community and the way we lived the monastic life in our region, and yet all of us were equally searching for God, all had the same desire for a life that truly follows the gospel, all of us were faced with the limitations of our times.

When looking from this global perspective, or better, when pondering on this COMMUNIO, I recognised Benedictine monasticism as representing the whole of humanity on the move, with a wide open horizon, each of us in our own different way in our own community, seemingly insignificant, but together part of a history which we are writing together in the spirit of St. Benedict and his rule. I discovered a key to this experience in looking at modern day history. Meditating on this “global perspective” one recognises that there has been a change of course, that in the present day we are in a time of transition. No matter whether one is drawing from tradition, recognising and enjoying its riches, or whether one is passing tradition on to others in a way that it can be recognised as a source of life, which ever one chooses, I recognised that both ways are occasions for experiencing God’s love. This road of conversion is a challenge to fear and depression, especially here in Europe, in Italy.

Together with young sisters from all over the world, I felt myself called to be a bridge of hope between the past and the future, called to preserve the conviction that he monastic life is a great gift for the whole of humanity, something precious which God keeps and nurtures and guides into the future. It seemed to me that we were Je suis arrivée a Rome pour participer comme jeune sœur de la Région d’Italie. . .Ici je me suis trouvée aussitôt dans une réalité tout à fait nouvelle pour moi. Dans un premier moment je me suis sentie éperdue par le « mur » de la langue, mais j’ai pu toucher vite la possibilité d’une profonde communication et unité au-delà de la langue, des différentes traditions, des culture et au-delà de l’histoire de chaque région et communauté. J’ai vu dans cette ouvrage de l’Esprit Saint la collaboration de beaucoup des sœurs qui ont travaillé avec créativité pour que tout pouvait être à service de la communion, à partir par la liturgie, jusqu’aux moments de copartage et d’allégresse. Dans ces jours j’ai pensé beaucoup de fois à l’image des Dialogues de S. Grégoire : S. Benoît qui voit tout le monde dans un rayon de lumière. Chacun de nous était là en portant toute sa communauté et la réalité monastique de sa région dans une unique recherche de Dieu et un même désir de vraie vie évangélique en acceptant les défis de notre temps.

Dans ce regard globalisé, ou mieux de communion, j’ai vu le monachisme bénédictin comme un humanité en marche, dans un horizon ouvert où nous sommes dans nôtres communautés, parties petites, mais précieuses d’une histoire qui est en train d’être construite maintenant, bien avec nous, dans formes sauvées beaucoup différentes, mais au même temps bonnes et nées dans l’esprit de S. Benoît et de sa Règle. Dans cette expérience j’ai trouvé comme une clef de lecture de l’histoire du présent.

Regardant à travers ce regard « mondial » on voit un changement en cours, un temps de transition où on prend et on redonne la richesse de la tradition où on la traduit dans une forme qui soit une source vive, toujours un lieu de rencontre avec l’amour de Dieu. Ce chemin de conversion défie la peur et la dépression, surtout dans notre Europe et dans l’Italie.

Avec les jeune sœurs de tout le monde je me suis sentit appelée à être un pont d’espérance et de confiance entre le passé et le future, à garder la certitude que la vie monastique est un bien remis à nôtres humanités, un bien qui Dieu même garde, alimente et porte en avant.

When looking from this global perspective, or better, when pondering on this COMMUNIO, I recognised Benedictine monasticism as representing the whole of humanity on the move, with a wide open horizon, each of us in our own different way in our own community, seemingly insignificant, but together part of a history which we are writing together in the spirit of St. Benedict and his rule. I discovered a key to this experience in looking at modern day history. Meditating on this “global perspective” one recognises that there has been a change of course, that in the present day we are in a time of transition. No matter whether one is drawing from tradition, recognising and enjoying its riches, or whether one is passing tradition on to others in a way that it can be recognised as a source of life, which ever one chooses, I recognised that both ways are occasions for experiencing God’s love. This road of conversion is a challenge to fear and depression, especially here in Europe, in Italy.

Together with young sisters from all over the world, I felt myself called to be a bridge of hope between the past and the future, called to preserve the conviction that he monastic life is a great gift for the whole of humanity, something precious which God keeps and nurtures and guides into the future. It seemed to me that we were
Il m’a semblé que nous sommes dans une réconciliation en acte entre la tradition glorieuse des siècles passés et les petites « bourgeons » de vie qui maintenant sont en train de poindre. J’ai vu ça aussi à propos de l’identité de la guide. Il a été encourageant rencontrer dans celles qui tiennent la place de Christ pour nous, les tracts du service, de l’écoute, de la confiance et de la recherche de soi même avant et avec l’aide donné à la communauté pour un chemin fécond, libre et libérant, joyeux pour toutes ensemble. Ces réalités ont parlé nous la langue du Evangile et de la Règle.

Je conserve après moi particulièrement fort le moment de la rénovation de la Profession Monastique de tous nous dans l’Eglise de S. Scolastique. La désolation de la structure et ensemble le signe de offrir nous même, fait dans le diverses langues, a été pour moi comme la prophétie d’une nouvelle vie de communion bénie par Dieu.

acting out reconciliation between a glorious tradition of past centuries and the small “buds” which are at the point of bursting into life. I saw this too in the question of leadership. It was encouraging to meet women who take for us the place of Christ, to recognise their sense of service, their ability to listen, to experience the trust they showed and to see their own search to understand themselves, and to realise that the helps they give to the community for a fruitful and liberating spiritual journey, bringing joy to everyone, all belongs to their own spiritual journey. Experiencing all this I knew that it was the language of the Gospel and of the Rule.

The strongest moment that I personally cherish was the renewal of vows, which we made together in the church of St. Scholastica. The delapidated state of the church on the one hand and we on the other, witnessing to our wish to offer our whole lives, doing this in the different languages, this was for me like a prophesy of a new life in communion with each other blessed by God.
For Benedictines a Symposium is a wonderful chance to celebrate together. From one Symposium to the next we have moved forward in our ways of doing this.

CIB-liturgy

For Benedictines a Symposium is a wonderful chance to celebrate together. From one Symposium to the next we have moved forward in our ways of doing this.

The Symposium Liturgy

A Symposium gives the opportunity to meet people, to share with others. There is a place for receiving information, for reflecting and for sharing one’s experiences. But for Benedictines it is also a wonderful chance to celebrate together. From one Symposium to the next we have moved forward in our ways of doing this, making adjustments in answer to the enormous challenge of how to be united and celebrate together in the face of our different tastes and cultures?

This time I loved the opening ritual for our meeting. The symbols were so simple: the light of the pascal candle and the font with baptismal water. To bring the light to each group and to sign oneself: these were such simple gestures. The refrains sung by the schola of young polish sisters were simple too. Similarly at the beginning of each afternoon a similar ritual was repeated with eloquent sobriety.

Another very strong element was the renewal of vows in the church of St. Scholastica in Norcia. Standing between the rubble in this delapidated place so charged with history, each language group, one after the other, renewed their vows. The other sisters stood waiting, they listened, were witnesses, and I believe they prayed quietly for those whose turn it was.

At the closing ceremony, on September 14, there was space for M.Maire and Sr. Agnes to hand over to each person a small cross: again a very simple gesture, but I admired the way each person received her cross, accepting it in an act of faith.

These are three occasions which touched me. The daily liturgy, lauds in English and Vespers in Latin, Eucharist in a variety of languages, everything had been prepared with great care, a fact which made it possible to experience the office as peaceful and prayerful. Thank you to everyone who contributed to this.
Renewing my vows in Norcia
by Sr. Austin Chang OSB  Taiwan
Region 13

It was a great opportunity for me to be able to participate in the 5th International Symposium of the OIB in Rome, 5th - 15th September 2006. I met Benedictine sisters from all over the world. It was a very exciting experience for me.

I want to say something about the renewal of vows that took place when on a pilgrimage to the birthplace of St. Benedict. In 1982 I made my first vows in Taiwan. And now here I was in 2006 renewing my vows at Norcia near Rome. When I made my first vows I was just alone at that moment. After 24 years, I renew my vows together with over one hundred Benedictine sisters from all over the world. That was a really beautiful and touching moment for me.

We used different languages, German, Italian, Spanish, French and English, to renew our vows in the beautiful birth-place of St. Benedict. Even though I don’t know the other languages, I still tried to follow with my heart to make my vows. It was an amazing moment. We were all united in the same spirit of Benedict. I used my imagination to see young Benedict and his sister Scholastica as they might have been here as children close to nature. Maybe they shared secrets and had fun together. But most of all, they must have prayed together. I can imagine Our Father in Heaven enjoying their childish but sweet dreams of the future. And here we were, in that future.....

An opportunity to encounter our heritage
by Sr. Phoebe Schwarzer OSB, USA
Region 9

On our free day there was an expedition to visit the Catacombs of Priscilla. As we walked together among the places where our ancestors in faith prayed and were buried and saw their drawings on the walls, many of us felt a connection with the earliest history of our Church. We were deeply moved to celebrate Mass together at the Catacombs.

Our pilgrimage day to Norcia was an opportunity to connect with our Benedictine roots. We prayed together on the buses and then celebrated Mass together at the Basilica of St. Benedict. Under this church are the ruins of the home where tradition says Sts. Benedict and Scholastica were born. We also had the opportunity to visit the beautiful town of Norcia and to look out on the Umbrian mountains that would have been the scenery that formed part of the Saints’ background. In the afternoon we went to the church of St. Scholastica, said to be where the family of Sts. Benedict and Scholastica had their summer home. In the church there are ancient frescos of the two saints. There we renewed our vows and sang the Suscipe together. It was another very profound experience for us.

While each of us newer members have different memories and different moments that are special to each of us, I know that it was a great privilege for us to have the opportunity to be at the Symposium and to learn from each other and from all our wisdom leaders.

Following in their footsteps, by Sr. Michaela Hedican OSB

Walking into the chapel at S’Anselmo for the first meeting of the Symposium was an experience of being immersed in the richness of our Benedictine heritage and at the same time of being carried to the corners of the world where beginning Benedictinism is flourishing. Filled with gratitude and hope, I settled into my table where an experience of a “world-wide” Benedictine community (seven different countries were represented) awaited me. The great versatility of the Rule and the commonalities bonding those of us who seek God as followers of Benedict was highlighted for me whether I was conversing with Benedictines from Korea or Canada, Uganda or England.

The time we spent at the basilica of Saint Paul-Outside-the-Walls gave me the sensation that I was stepping into the great stream of Benedictine history.
The earliest account of a monastic community residing at Saint Paul-Outside-the-Walls dates back to the 6th century. The richness of Benedictinism in the abbey and the basilica was touching and its vibrancy was attested to by the international community residing there. Learning the history of the abbey and the longstanding relationship of the Benedictines and the Vatican was fascinating and inspiring. Abbot Edward shared with us that Pope John XXIII announced the conveying of the Second Vatican Council one Sunday when he joined the monks for Vespers. Our being able to pray Vespers with the monks was an experience of stepping ever deeper into the ancient and ever moving waters of our Benedictine tradition.

Celebrating Eucharist at the Church of St. Benedict in Norcia and renewing our profession at the Church of St. Scholastica provided an experience of touching the heart of our Benedictine beginnings. Despite the Church of St. Scholastica being in need of repair and reconstruction it was a witness to the enduring framework provided for us by the wisdom of Benedict and the example of Scholastica.

To follow in their footsteps is an awesome privilege that was strengthened and sustained for me by the pilgrimage with my Symposium sisters to the holy ground of our Benedictine birth.

---

GOALS AGREED ON BY THE CONFERENCE FOR THE NEXT FOUR YEARS

1) Develop a profile for the 21st century through ongoing formation.
2) Question ourselves whether we, as Benedictine Women, have a word for the world.
3) Search for better ways of disseminating monastic material between Benedictines of different regions.
4) Review the structures of the CIB within the next four years.

---

Sister Michaela Hedican, Prioress of Saint Bede Monastery, Eau Claire, WI, USA, Federation of St. Benedict, Region 9, reading during Vespers in St. Pauls Outside the Walls with the Benedictine community of monks.
THE CIB CONFERENCE

The present delegates of the 19 regions who form the Conference are:

M. Irene Dabalus, Casa S. Spirito, Rome was until October 2006 the co-opted member. During the voting this year she passed her active and passive voting rights to her substitute, M. Teresa Paula Simoes Dias Perdigao, Roriz, Portugal, President of the Congregation Regina Apostolorum. M. Maria Teresa Ferrari, Rafaela, Argentine (Region 12) was unable to come and was represented by her substitute, M. Estella Maria Armelin, San Luis, Argentine.

The next meeting of the Conference will take place September 2007 in Manila, Philippines.